ERDOSE OF MORPHINE.

Social Circles-Carried Life Insurance.

Continued loss of sleep and the taking of morphine in too great a quantity caused he death yesterday morning of Francis T Hord, a well-known lawyer of this city, at his home, 1301 North Pennsylvania street. He was found about 7 o'clock yesterday morning by his wife dead in bed, and Dr. Kahlo, who was called, said he had been dead for about two hours. All efforts to revive him were unsuccessful. Mr. Hord had been ailing for several days on account of loss of sleep and Wednesday went to Dr. Henry Jameson for advice. He was given some light medicine and then went home. He lay down on a couch after having written a note to his wife, who went out, in which he said: "Do not wake eighth ounce of morphine. Dr. Jameson had been taken. Dr. Knox, deputy coroner, was called, and after hearing the statements of Mrs. Hord and his physicians decided that no autopsy was necessary, his illness, the note | and all the circumstances giving evidence of death from an overdose of the drug probably take action relating to the meetaken through a lack of knowledge of the ing of the Sovereign Grand Lodge here in

A MAN OF PROMINENCE. Mr. Hord was quite prominent in business and social circles and his many friends, who saw him Wednesday morning and afternoon, were unable to believe the report and many of them called at the house to verify the statement. He was unusually cept his inability to sleep. Francis T. Hord, born and reared in this city, was thirty-four years of age. He was the Ann Arbor Law School. He began the tudy of law in the office of Harrison, Miler & Elam, and after graduating, in 1892, formed a law partnership with Lafayette Ferkins, the firm name being Hord & Perkins. He was a Democrat in politics and in sarty work was quite an active worker. He was elected in the year of his admission to the bar to the Indiana House of Representatives, where he served in a conspicuous manner, being, at times, vigorously opposed to party work. He was married in 1889 to Miss Eleanor Young, of Terre Haute, daughter of Dr.

and Mrs. Stephen Young. His wife and two children. Eleanor, eleven years of age, and Stephen, three years old, survive him. time attorney general of Indiana, and a member of the law firm of Baker, Hord & Hendricks, died in 1888 of apoplexy. His mother resides at Terre Haute. Harry E. Hord, a brother, lives in this city. Dr. and Mrs. Young came here yesterday, having been early notified of his death. His wife was yesterday said to be seriously ill from

Mr. Hord is said to have carried a large amount of insurance upon his life, the estimates being placed from $25,000 to $60,000. He was a member of no secret orders, but was a member of the Country Club, of which he was once president, the University Club and the Commercial Club.

Death of Andrew W. Sharpe.

FUNERAL OF S. G. WOODWARD.

The Impressive Scottish Rite Service at the Cemetery.

The remains of the late Sheldon G. Woodward were placed in the receiving vault at ODD FELLOWS ARE ACTIVE Crown Hill, yesterday afternoon, the last funeral rites being conducted by the Scotrelatives and friends of the deceased. The services at the house were solemnized at 2:30, being conducted by Rev. C. C. Lasby, pastor of the Central-avenue M. E. Church.

the Scottish Rite and friends of the family. Many of the friends, who were desirous of paying their last respects to Dr. Woodward, stood on the porch, being unable to gain entrance to the house on account of the large number present. Rev. Lasby read the usual Scriptural passage and the favorite hymns of Dr. Woodward were sung by a quartet. Rev. Lasby preached the sermon at the house, in which he spoke of Dr. Woodward's business career and life in Indianapolis. He was chief of the money-order department in the Indianapolis postoffice under Postmasters Wallace and Thompson, and after his retirement from the government service he became a traveling agent for the firm of Hendrickson & Lefler, of this city. He was educated for a physician, but did not remain actively in the profession The impressive funeral services of the Scottish Rite were read over the body at the cemetery. > Lengenfelter, after the shooting, ran from the place, and a few moments later gave himself up to the police. He was taken to headquarters and charged with shooting

> With a few variations the stories of the men are the same. Both, in company with several others, were playing cards in the saloon in violation of law. Frequent trips when at the bar a friend of Lengenfelter's came in. Lengenfelter started to introduce the friend to Ensey, who turned his back. Lengenfelter remonstrated, and was, he claims, struck in the face by Ensey. Lengenfelter went out and returned a few minutes later, finding the men again playing cards. Some one asked him to have a drink, and while at the bar Ensey started toward him again:

> Both went out the door, and it was then that Lengenfelter drew his pistol and fired. He then ran south on Senate avenue and boarded a passing car. On Indiana avenue he saw Patrolmen Hanlon and Mc-Carty. He jumped from the car, and, approaching them, handed over his revolver, saying he had just shot at a man with it and requesting that he be taken to headquarters. He said he did not know whether or not the bullet had taken effect. Lengenfelter recently returned from the Philippines, where he served in the regular army.

Talk of Pardon for Higgins.

A movement is on foot to secure the pardon of John M. Higgins, the Democratic councilman of the Fifteenth ward, who is City penitentiary of two to fourteen years on a charge of soliciting a bribe from D. M Parry for his influence in the Council to assist Parry in getting permission to lay a switch to his factory. Charles M. Osgood one of the witnesses against Higgins, has signed the petition. William Flynn, city sweeping inspector, is at the head of the movement. It is said the reason for asking for a pardon is that Higgins is in poor health and his wife and family are dependent on him.
